Abstract

Values are retrieved from a number of MISRs which are coupled to a number of microprocessor buses, and a random number is generated based on the retrieved values.